5/ "SIRMA GROUP HOLDING" JSC IN Q1 2024

Summary

Slow economic growth, mainly driven by Asia, a "soft landing" in the US and a little harder for Europe. However, inflation is falling faster than expected, but increased risks to global economic development in 2024/2025 remain. Accordingly, expectations for 2024 have worsened compared to 2023. The ICT market once again proves its resilience to critical situations and continues to grow in 2023 and even accelerate into 2024.

Forecast for the economy of Bulgaria in 2024 and for the future years

Despite an expected recovery in exports in 2024, some of the slowdown from 2023 is expected to carry over into 2024. Strong domestic consumption will remain, although not growing at the pace of 2023. After mid-2024 a gradual strengthening of demand from other European countries is expected, and hence an increase in Bulgaria's exports. A recovery of investments is also expected, and they will mainly come along the lines of absorption of European funds, including the Fund for the Recovery and Sustainability of Bulgaria.

Annual inflation for the period March 2024 compared to March 2023, as measured by the Harmonized Index of Consumer Prices (HICP), fell to 3.1%. The fall in inflation is expected to continue. It can be argued that inflation in Bulgaria is under control, with an expected decline to 2.9% in 2025.

Forecast for development of global economy in 2024 and for the future years

Global economic growth turned out to be more sustainable than expected (OECD Economic Outlook, February 2024).

The tight monetary policy and the associated rising interest rates are giving increasingly visible results, which, in addition to falling inflation, are bringing with them a contraction in both business and consumer spending. Accordingly, growth in the US is expected to slow to 2.1% in 2024 and 1.7% in 2025. In the Eurozone, where demand has already contracted, economic growth is expected to be and recover slightly to 1.1% in 2024.

Falling energy prices and overcoming supply chain bottlenecks contributed to a faster-than-expected decline in inflation in 2023. In the absence of further supply shocks, a gradual cooling of domestic demand and a further decline in inflation to its target levels by end of 2025.

The forecast for global economic development in 2024 and 2025 of the OECD (OECD Economic Outlook, February 2024) is for a slight decline to 2.9% in 2024 and a recovery to 3% in 2025.

Although the OECD forecasts in the beginning of 2024 are more optimistic, risks to the world's economic development still remain. Such risks are:

- Risk of a greater than expected effect from monetary restrictions: low probability / medium impact;
- global recession: average probability / average impact ;
- escalation of Russia's war in Ukraine: low probability / high impact;
- increasing debt difficulties due to high interest rates and slow growth: average probability / high impact;
- potential sustainability of inflation and the related need to maintain high interest rates for a longer period: average probability / high impact ;
- stronger-than-expected contraction of the Chinese economy, deepening deflation and contraction of domestic consumption and sales problems in the Chinese property market that generate liquidity and/or risk of debt defaults: low probability / high impact ;
- deepening of the geopolitical fragmentation that began in 2022: average probability / high impact ;
- escalation of the war between Israel and Hamas to a regional conflict and/or limitation of traffic of fuel and foods through the Middle East: low probability / high impact ;
- a possible return of energy and/or food shortages and the resulting rise in prices: high probability / high impact ;
- extreme climatic events: high probability / average impact.

The European Commission (Winter 2024 Economic Forecast, European Commission, February 15, 2024) again revised downward its forecasts for the development of the European economy in the conditions of a faster than expected contraction of inflation. The EU economy continues to grow, albeit with reduced momentum. The forecast revised EU GDP growth to 0.9% in 2024. The EC also cut expectations for euro area growth to 0.8% in 2024 and 1.5% in 2025.

Inflation is expected to continue to decline over the forecast horizon. The Harmonized Index of Consumer Prices (HICP) is expected to reach 3.0% in 2024, and 2.5% in 2025 in the EU. Eurozone inflation is expected to be slightly lower than overall inflation for the Union.

Expectations for the first quarter of 2024 remain modest. The main reasons for this are:

- contraction of internal consumption;
- poor external demand;
- forced monetary contraction (fighting inflation);
- and the partial suspension of fiscal stimulus in 2023.

Although all the conditions for the recovery of economic growth are in place, risks remain. Continued logistics difficulties in the Middle East and further disruptions to trade chains could lead to production difficulties and pressure on price levels again. Risks related to climate change and extreme weather events will continue to be a threat to the continent again in 2024.

The Industry of Sirma

Sirma Group companies specialize in the information technology (IT) industry, predominantly focused on businesses (B2B). Industrial data is usually combined with data on the "communications segment" because this segment is completely dependent on information technology. Accordingly, the industry acquired the name "Information and Communication Technologies" or ICT for short. Out of all the variety of ICT segments, the companies in the group mainly work in the segments "IT services" (system integration, infrastructure as a service, software as a service, software support, consulting) and "Business software" (various software products and services aimed at different business verticals and custom software development).

The two main segments ("IT Services" and "Software") in which the Group operates were the fastest and most sustainably growing in the past (Gartner, July 19, 2023). Both segments are seen as the solution to all problems arising from global economic uncertainty and accordingly as "immunized from crises". The mass digitization that is unfolding relies precisely on "Software", for the various technological solutions and "IT services" through which these solutions are implemented. This has led to the growth of both segments even in the turbulent year 2022. Expectations of continued growth of them are in place for the following years.

Geographically, Sirma is focused on the world's leading markets (US, UK, and Europe), which are also the leading geographic centers for demand for ICT products and services.

Sirma is a B2B IT provider. Sirma's client portfolio - Digital Business (Consulting and Integration, Chatbots, IT Security and Software Development), Financial Institutions (Consulting, Integration, IT Security, Chatbots, and the products of Sirma Business Consulting AD), Insurance (The platform for insurance broker of Sirma), hospitality (Sciant), and healthcare (Sirma Medical Systems) show sustainable development and strong growth in 2023 and the following years.

The global ICT market in 2024 and future forecast

At the end 2023, Gartner also revised its forecasts for the development of the ICT market in 2023 (Gartner, December, 2023) and its expectations for 2024.

In 2024, the ICT sector is expected to return to strong growth outlook of 8.0% and corresponding growth in all segments.

The ICT markets of consumers and corporate customers will experience different dynamics during the years under review. While inflation erodes the purchasing power of individual consumers, businesses continue to spend for their digitization, process optimization, and pursuit of increased margins. Precisely because of some of the challenges in the world, the segments "Software" and "IT services" are expected to maintain their leading position in 2024 with growth of 13.8% and 10.4%, respectively.

In 2024, Gartner expects growth to accelerate (6.8% in current prices or 7.9% in constant prices), with total global ICT spending reaching USD 5 trillion for the first time. The expectations are that the growth of the ICT industry will return to its normal levels, and this time the growth will cover all segments of the sector.

Sources of growth

The growth expected in the following years is global and is anticipated in all regions. While leading by volume, ICT spending growth in North America, the UK and Europe will also outpace the average ICT spending growth of all other countries.

Even countries experiencing increased economic difficulties (Turkey, Greece, Argentina) are expected to increase their ICT spending in the coming years. Forecast growth varies significantly between countries, but no country is expected to shrink its ICT spending.

Spending growth in IT will be maintained for all countries in 2024. India is expected to break away from the rest of the countries, in its IT spending, with growth which is approaching 12%. The largest IT market in the US is expected to record strong growth again, exceeding 8% in 2024. European countries and China are oriented towards the world average of 7%. Japan and Latin American countries recorded the most modest growth, around 5%. However, it should be noted that even this weaker growth of 5% per year would have looked impressive just 10 years ago. The growth of IT spending is related to the IT saturation of the respective economy and the related IT spending per capita. The countries that lead the ranking in terms of IT spending growth are those that have realized that their economic development is tightly related to IT. Things are similar when considering verticals. Again, absolutely every industry is expected to increase its ICT spending. Banking, Financial Services, Telecommunications, Healthcare and various forms of government are expected to lead the growth of ICT spending in 2024 and beyond.

Despite the expected growth in all segments and in 2024, the traditional leaders in terms of growth remain: the "Software" and "IT services" segments. The expected average growth for 2024 is expected to be 7%, with approximately the same CAGR for 2022-2027. Something striking is the huge difference in growth between the fastest growing and the slowest growing (sometimes shrinking) sub-segments: "Infrastructure as a Service" (IaaS) continues to be unable to fit into the graph, due to its impressive growth of 24.5% in 2024, while "Printers" and "Fixed voice" devices are expected to mark a 5% decline.

The driver of growth in 2024 is not expected to be consumers, but business organizations and their digitalization

For a long time, the "Communication Services" segment was the largest in the ICT sector. From 2024 onwards, this will no longer be the case. "IT services" displaces "TELCO" in the first place, and further, it is expected to maintain its significant growth in the coming years.

The "Software" sub-segment market is also expected to eclipse TELCO, but only in 2028.

analysis and planning their management, then begins a process of monitoring and a regular return to the analysis process.

In "Sirma Group Holding" JSC a sophisticated risk management system has been set up.

Risk management in the "Sirma Group Holding" includes:

- Risk identification - This is a lengthy process that detects potential threats. In order to identify the expected and predictable risks, different methods are used: questionnaires (interview questionnaires), interviews, brainstorming, document analysis, a list of expected and predictable risks (checklist analysis), based on a previous experience

- Qualitative and quantitative risk analysis - Once the potential risks have been identified, a qualitative and quantitative analysis of each of them is required. The likelihood of occurrence and impact through predefined scales is estimated, for example Probability: very small, small, medium, large or very large; Impact: catastrophic, critical, permissible, insignificant.

A risk table is prepared with the data. Risks are grouped into categories, their likelihood of occurrence and their impact, as well as case scenarios that are implemented in case the risk occurs. The resulting list is sorted by impact and probability. A threshold is set, the risks over which it will be managed. The risk table is reviewed and reassessed on a regular basis, as there is a chance that risks may be dropped, new ones added or ratings changed.

- Planning actions to overcome the risk

The next step in risk management is planning. This is the process of documenting the measures that will be applied to managing each of the identified key risks. 3 management strategies are used:

- a) risk avoidance - a strategy that reduces the likelihood of risk occurring;
- b) minimizing the risk-taking effect - a strategy that reduces the consequences of the risk;
- c) Emergency action plans - a strategy where the organization accepts the risk and is ready to deal with it if it comes to fruition;

As a result of the risk planning, a Risk Mitigation Monitoring and Management Plan is established. It may be a separate document or a set of information cards for each individual risk to be stored and managed in a database.

- Risk monitoring and control - This is the latest activity in risk management. This process has several main tasks:
 - confirm the occurrence of a risk
 - ensure that activities to prevent or deal with risks are implemented
 - Identify what risk has caused the relevant problems
 - document information to be used in a subsequent risk analysis;

8/ RISK FACTORS

Risk management objectives and policies

The Company is exposed to various risks in relation to financial instruments. The main types of risks are market risk, credit risk and liquidity risk.

The Company's risk management is coordinated at its headquarters, in close co-operation with the board of directors and focuses on actively securing the Company's short to medium-term cash flows by minimizing the exposure to financial markets.

The Company does not actively engage in the trading of financial assets for speculative purposes nor does it write options.

The most significant financial risks to which the Company is exposed are described below.

8.1 Market risk analysis

The Company is exposed to market risk through its use of financial instruments and specifically to currency risk, interest rate risk and certain other price risks, which result from both its operating and investing activities.

As the economic consequences of the war in Ukraine unfolded, strong inflationary pressures arose. Annual inflation for the period March 2024 compared to March 2023, as measured by National Statistical Institute with the Harmonized Index of Consumer Prices (HICP), fell to 3.1%. By the second half of 2025, easing pressures from energy prices and other costs, together with the ECB's monetary policy measures, should bring inflation back to the target level.

The expected retention of the level of inflation will continue to affect the maintenance of high levels of purchase prices of the goods and services used by the Company, which could lead to an unexpected contraction of consumer demand and, accordingly, future revenues.

8.1.1.1 Foreign currency risk

Most of the Company's transactions are carried out in Bulgarian leva (BGN). Exposures to currency exchange rates arise from the Company's overseas sales and purchases, which are primarily denominated in US-Dollars.

To mitigate the Company's exposure to foreign currency risk, non-BGN cash flows are monitored. Generally, Company's risk management procedures distinguish short-term foreign currency cash flows (due within 6 months) from longer-term cash flows. Where the amounts to be paid and received in a specific currency are expected to largely offset one another, no further hedging activity is undertaken, as is usually the case in the Company.

8.1.1.2 Interest rate risk

The Company's policy is to minimize interest rate cash flow risk exposures on long-term financing. Longer-term borrowings are therefore usually at fixed rates.

At 31 March 2024, the Company is not exposed to a significant risk of changes in market interest rates on the company's overdraft. All other financial assets and liabilities of the Company have fixed interest rates.

8.2 Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that a counterparty fails to discharge an obligation to the Company. The Company is exposed to this risk for various financial instruments, for example by granting loans and receivables to customers, placing deposits, etc. The Company's maximum exposure to credit risk is limited to the carrying amount of financial assets recognised at the reporting date.

The Company continuously monitors defaults of customers and other counterparties, identified either individually or by group, and incorporates this information into its credit risk controls. Where available at reasonable cost, external credit ratings and/or reports on customers and other counterparties are obtained and used. The Company's policy is to deal only with creditworthy counterparties. The Company's management considers that all the above financial assets that are not impaired or past due for each of the reporting dates under review are of good credit quality.

The Company has not provided its financial assets as collateral for transactions other than collateral for received bank loans.

In respect of trade and other receivables, the Company is not exposed to any significant credit risk exposure to a single counterparty or any group of counterparties having similar characteristics. Trade receivables consist of a small number of customers in single industry and geographical area. Based on historical information about customer default rates management consider the credit quality of trade receivables that are not past due or impaired to be good.

The credit risk for cash and cash equivalents is considered negligible, since the counterparties are reputable banks with high quality external credit ratings.

The carrying amounts disclosed above are the Company's maximum possible credit risk exposure in relation to these instruments.

8.3 Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk arising from the Company not being able to meet its obligations. The Company manages its liquidity needs by monitoring scheduled debt servicing payments for long-term financial liabilities as well as forecast cash inflows and outflows due in day-to-day business. Liquidity needs are monitored in various time bands, on a day-to-day and week-to-week basis, as well as on the basis of a rolling 30-day projection. Long-term liquidity needs for a 180-day and a 360-day lookout period are identified monthly. Net cash requirements are compared to available borrowing facilities in order to determine headroom or any shortfalls. This analysis shows that available borrowing facilities are expected to be sufficient over the lookout period.

The Company's objective is to maintain cash to meet its liquidity requirements for 30-day periods. Funding for long-term liquidity needs is additionally secured by an adequate amount of committed credit facilities.

Financial assets used for managing liquidity risk

The Company considers expected cash flows from financial assets in assessing and managing liquidity risk, in particular its cash resources and trade receivables. The Company's existing cash resources and trade receivables do not significantly exceed the current cash outflow requirements. Cash flows from trade and other receivables are all contractually due within six months.
